Dear speaker,

The event organizers have requested that your talk be recorded and posted on line as a Web Lecture. If you agree, this means that your audio/video and visual aids will be made available to the general public for on-demand viewing, and the recorded materials will be stored in a long-term archive on a University of Michigan server.

In return for the opportunity to have your presentation broadly disseminated, you hereby grant to the Regents of the University of Michigan and its assigns, licensees and successors the right to use, perform, display, transmit, broadcast (live or delayed/on demand), and distribute the presentation and other materials used or provided by you (and your name with such presentation) in all forms and media including in any media or format now known or developed in the future for any purpose whatsoever, throughout the world in perpetuity.

We understand that you or your employer are the owner(s) of the content of your presentation, and that you will not disclose in your presentation any non-public information (whether yours, your employer's or a third party's).

The Regents of the University of Michigan will own the copyright in the recording of your presentation, subject to any underlying intellectual property rights you or your employer may have in its content. In addition, the University of Michigan will identify you by name when using your presentation.

If you would prefer to have your work made available under a Creative Commons license (<http://creativecommons.org>) please check one of the following:
